Portage la Prairie School Division

Portage la Prairie Division offers a wide variety of educational opportunities and supports to meet the needs of over 3,500 students. Within the Division, there are seven schools with a wide range of programs from K-8, ten multi-grade level Hutterian Colony Schools, and one high school campus that provides a wide variety of courses to over 1000 students from grades 9-12.

With a diverse variety of culturally rich ethnic backgrounds within its catchment borders, Portage la Prairie School Division has developed a wide variety of innovative programs to serve its students. From its modern power mechanics facility at the high school campus, to the delivery of innovative programs in special education, university and technical skills preparation, Indigenous Education, and English as an Additional Language programming. Portage la Prairie School Division is recognized province wide as a leader in the development of programs for students from multiple cultural backgrounds, varying interests, and wide-ranging academic abilities.
